Republican Candidate for Senate: Ron Johnson

In 1979, Ron and his wife Jane moved to Wisconsin where he started a business called PACUR with his brother-in-law. Ron was the accountant and a machine operator, and for most of the company's first year, Ron traded 12 hour shifts with his brother-in-law until they could train other operators. With the help and dedication of the fine people Ron had the privilege of working with, PACUR has grown from a company supplying a single customer to the largest producer in the world of a specialty plastic used in medical device packaging and high tech printing applications. PACUR sells its products all around the world, with one of its largest export markets being China. PACUR is still proud to say: "We don't export jobs, we export plastic." Ron's quiet, but extensive work within his community has had a deep impact. Ron has worked within the community to simply lend a helping hand to his neighbors- a value Ron learned from his parents. He enjoys the outdoors, fishing, hiking, camping, Packer and Badger games, rec league softball and basketball, folk music and playing guitar.
